Jeff Lionheart unveils new single "City Lights" feat. ex-Enuff Z'Nuff member Johnny Monaco on guitar

American Jeff Lionheart has released a new single titled "City Lights" which features former L.A. Guns (feat. Phil Lewis and Tracii Guns) and Enuff Z'Nuff member Johnny Monaco on guitar.

Lionheart's press release indicates (with slight edits):

"National recording artist Jeff Lionheart is set to release a brand new single "City Lights" in August 2020, featuring Johnny Monaco (Enuff Z'Nuff / L.A. Guns) on lead guitar, Scot Alexander (Dishwalla) on bass, Brian Roth (Roth Academy of Music) on keyboards and Todd Long (The Verve Pipe) on drums and guitar.

Jeff Lionheart's first single "Without You" hit #1 on the New Music Weekly Top 40 chart and climbed to #17 on Billboard AC. Lionheart says: "City Lights is a song about intense longing and passion for something you absolutely can't live without, and then just going after it!"

Filming for the official music video will be shot on location in Las Vegas, Nevada; Chicago, Illinois; Boise, Idaho; Grand Haven, Michigan; and Anchorage, Alaska in July 2020 by Aaron Schultz.

Record producer Mike Rogers best known for his work on "Grove Is In The Heart" by "Deee-Lite," who mixed and mastered the record had this to say: "Jeff Lionheart and his co-writer Todd Long wrote an outstanding song. They and the supporting musicians, managed to take me back to a time when great live performance was at the center of record production. This heartfelt, honest and at times full throttle mid tempo rocker was an absolute joy to mix. Welcome back pop rock, it's nice to hear you again!" — Mike Rogers (The Cro Mags, Deee-Lite, They Might Be Giants, Erasure, Graham Nash, Sinead O'Connor)."

Soaring up the AC charts: Grand Haven singer Jeff Lionheart shines on 'City Lights'

ARTIST SPOTLIGHTS - VIDEOS

The West Michigan native who moved back home two years ago has scored nationwide success for the second time in five years, with proceeds going to a good cause. Get the back story; listen to the single.

"I don't really do this for the money. I do it more for the love of music," Lionheart said. "I consider it a gift I was given and I want to do it for a purpose."

After his single, "Without You," climbed the Billboard Adult Contemporary and New Music Weekly's Top 40 Radio charts in 2015, Grand Haven singer Jeff Lionheart took a long breather from the bustle of the music industry.

Now, Lionheart has broken five years of radio silence to release the adult contemporary hit "City Lights," with instrumentation from Johnny Monaco (LA Guns/Enuff Z'Nuff) on lead guitar, Scot Alexander (Dishwalla) on bass, Todd Long (The Verve Pipe) on drums and guitar, and Brian Roth (Roth Academy of Music) on keyboards.

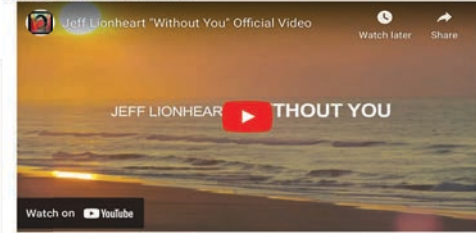

The single, released Aug. 7, shot to No. 3 on New Music Weekly's Top 40 chart, perched just behind Billie Eilish and Krewella & Yellow Claw.

"I was in Vegas for about seven years and I was in Chicago for a year, and I was in Florida for three or four years. I've just been traveling around playing music for years," Lionheart said.

"And then I got hit with some bad news. Both of my parents came down with cancer. I had been doing this for years and just kind of getting burnt out and tired because I've been doing it since I was in high school, and I thought it was time to come home. I felt something pulling me back home."

Lionheart, who plays keyboards, guitar and drums, wrote the lyrics, melodies and harmonies for his latest release and sang all of the vocal parts. West Michigan's Todd Long, who played guitar and drums on the track, wrote the musical arrangements.

VIDEO: Jeff Lionheart, "Without You"

Despite the title, the song has roots in Lionheart's quiet home in West Michigan, where he was born and raised — attending Lake Hills Elementary School in Spring Lake and Rosey Mound School in Grand Haven, as well as Northwestern Michigan College in Traverse City.

Scenes from the single's upcoming music video will show portions of his life amid hectic Chicago and glowing Las Vegas, but Grand Haven is also nestled among the list of prominent cities. That choice was intentional: It's part of Lionheart's life story.

After the success of "Without You," which featured the Grand Rapids Symphony, and two decades of performing and traveling,

"Honestly, I didn't know if I had it in me anymore," Lionheart said. "It had just been a while and I was wrapped up in other things. But the song has such a vibe to it, and it was so inspiring and when I heard it, it just hit me. It blew me away and I started getting ideas and I started recording."

Those vibes — racing rock progressions and driving lyrics — reflected an uplifting quality that Lionheart hoped would inspire listeners during a time in the world when people feel helpless and lost. The musicians all recorded their tracks in one take to capture their initial, raw emotions.

AN UPBEAT SONG WITH A MISSION

"It's upbeat, it's uplifting, it's positive," Lionheart said. "It's a good time to release music with some kind of positive messages out there because when you turn on the news, everywhere you look there's just so much negativity going on in the world. So I thought I'd rather contribute to something that's going to counter that."

Led by producer Mike Rogers (who most famously has worked with Deee-Lite and They Might Be Giants, among others), the song was largely assembled remotely amid the COVID-19 quarantine.

"It was strange because in the past, I've always been directly hands-on," Lionheart said. "We always went into the place together, we rehearsed together, we did things together. But with the way technology is now, this really was the most exciting and fascinating thing I've ever been a part of."

"You could see it go together like building blocks. Every time you could hear someone lay a new track down, it got greater energy and got a greater vibe and jumped to a higher level and fed everybody on."

Building on the song's positive theme, Lionheart has another goal for the track: He's donating his half of the single's profits to Refuge for Women and Feeding America, which battle human trafficking and promote food security respectively.

CD Review

f Share on Facebook

Artist: Jeff Lionheart
Album: Music Or Death
Label: Self released
Reviewer: Mark Lewis
Date: Apr 10, 2012

When you listen to music, it can strike a chord deep in your soul or fall flat with you. Great music will strike a chord and stir up emotions that run deep in your soul. The great singers are just that for a variety of reasons, including the ability to stir up the crowd and because of their vocal talents. Mariah Carey had a 6 octave range in her prime and Jeff Lionheart has a 4 octave tenor range, something very rare on the overall. He has released an album that has songs which charted and is something special.

The album is entitled 'Music Or Death', and for Jeff it is just that, Music...or Death! The album is a variety of sounds from the lighter contemporary sounds of the 1970's thru the love songs such as "Without You", something Karen Carpenter may have recorded. "Keep You From Runnin'" has that majestic Rock Opera feel we have come to know from the likes of Meatloaf and others. Songs such as "I Could Wait Forever" and "I Don't Wanna Say Good-Bye" have that anthemic 80's Rock flair to them. Then we come to "Rain". This is the song that is the "go for the jugular and kick you in the ass" song that shows Jeff for all the heart and soul a great singer is worth. It has that rebel attitude and vibe to it, and never lets you go. This is the song to watch for and check out first and last. This is also most likely the song you will burn out first on the CD.

When it comes to talent, there are amazing musicians, and then there are those in a different and select class and category. Jeff Lionheart is of the later. Keep an eye out for him and get a copy of "Music Or Death" as soon as you can. This is one that will appeal, for one reason or another, to most every music fan, because it truly has something for everyone.
